SEPTEMBER 11

Fallout 1988, the Party at Ground Zero blasted off on September 11th in the Quad. Regardless of the low turnout early in the day, it was termed a success by GW students and members of the Program Board. The first band to perform was "Go to Blazes." Then WRGW kept the music rolling during the intermission until "Little Benny and The Masters" took the stage.

BILLY BRAGG

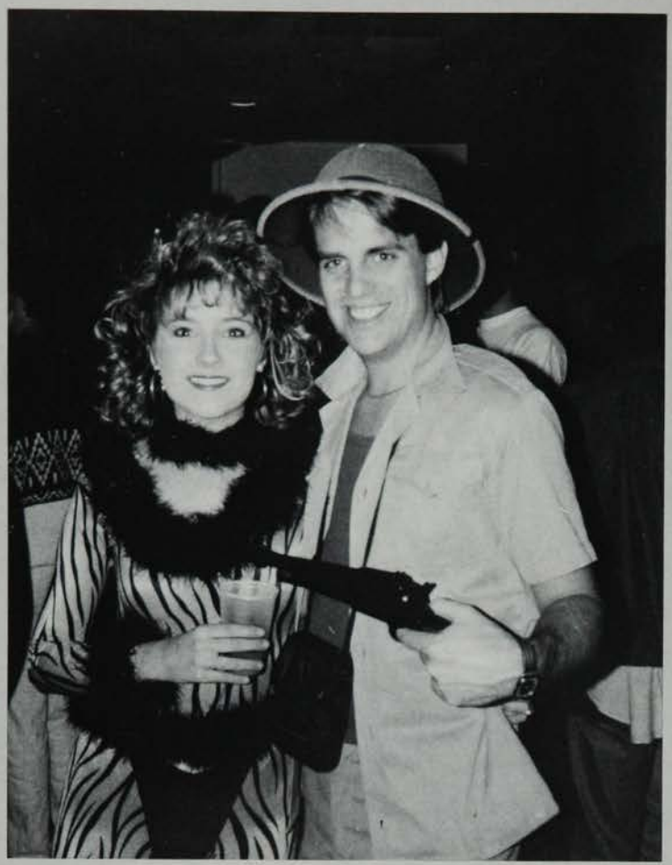

On October 28th the freaks, ghouls, and monsters came out in full force to the PB Fright Night. The event, also sponsored by the Mitchell Hall Council, was successful with more than 800 people attending. Students wearing costumes had an opportunity to compete for four prizes. "Little Benny and The Masters" provided a go-go beat for the students to rock to throughout most of the evening, while a disc jockey filled in during the band's intermission.

Sunday, October 23: Lisner Auditorium opened its stage to political rocker, Billy Bragg. Bragg made his second appearance at GW, giving audiences a mix of politics and music.

NY COMEDY NIGHT

More than 1,000 members of the GW community joined in laughter at the Program Board's New York Comedy Night. Held in the Grand Marketplace on November 3rd, the event is traditionally one of the PB's most popular productions. This time it featured comedians Kevin Lee, Billy Geisen, and David Say. Geisen, who has appeared on "The Tonight Show" opened the evening. He was followed by Lee and Say.

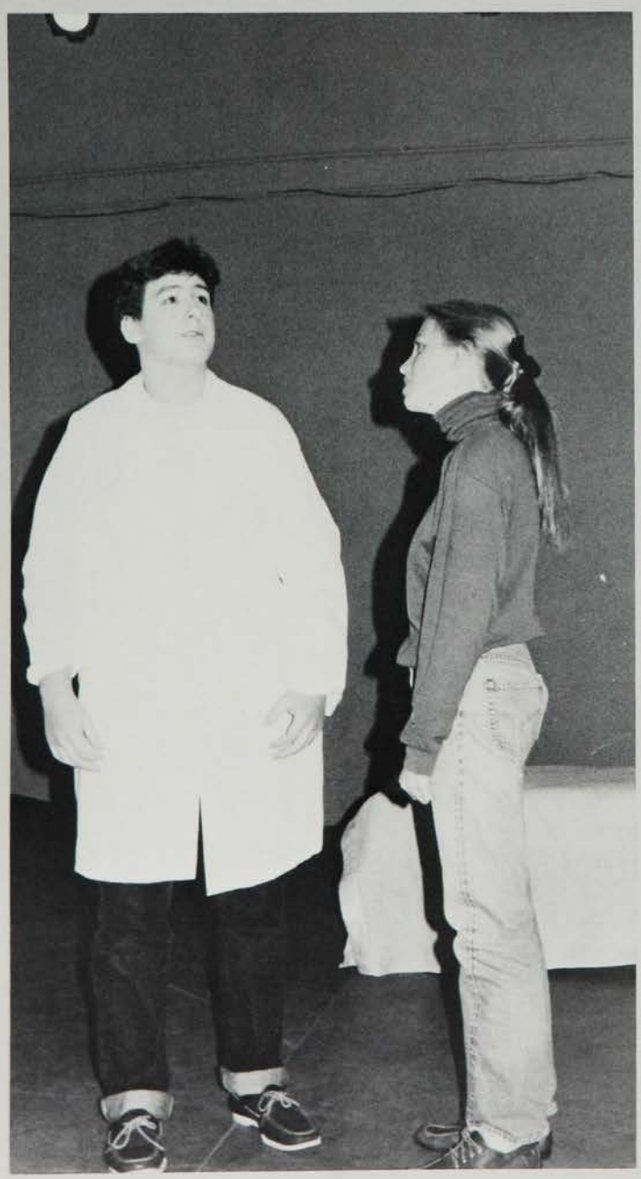

GENERIC THEATER

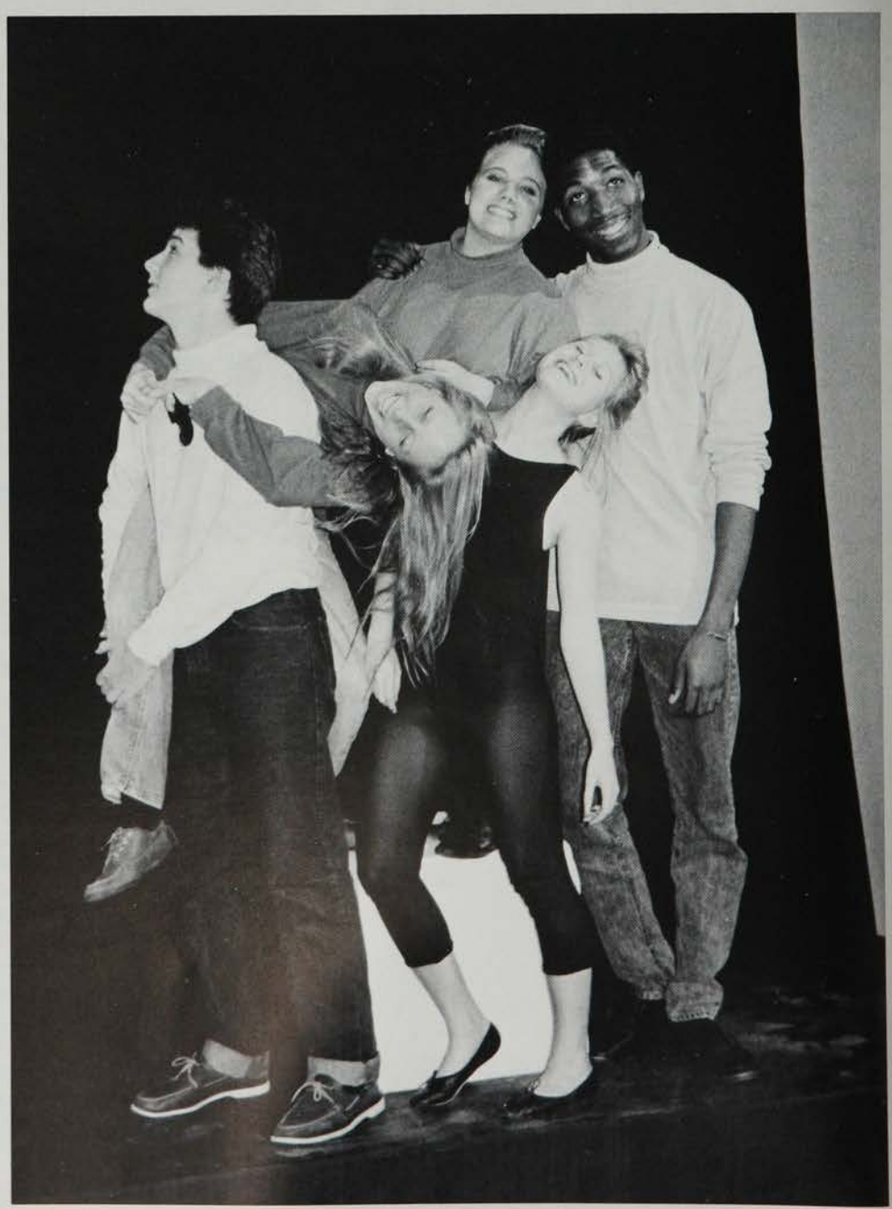

NOVEMBER 10

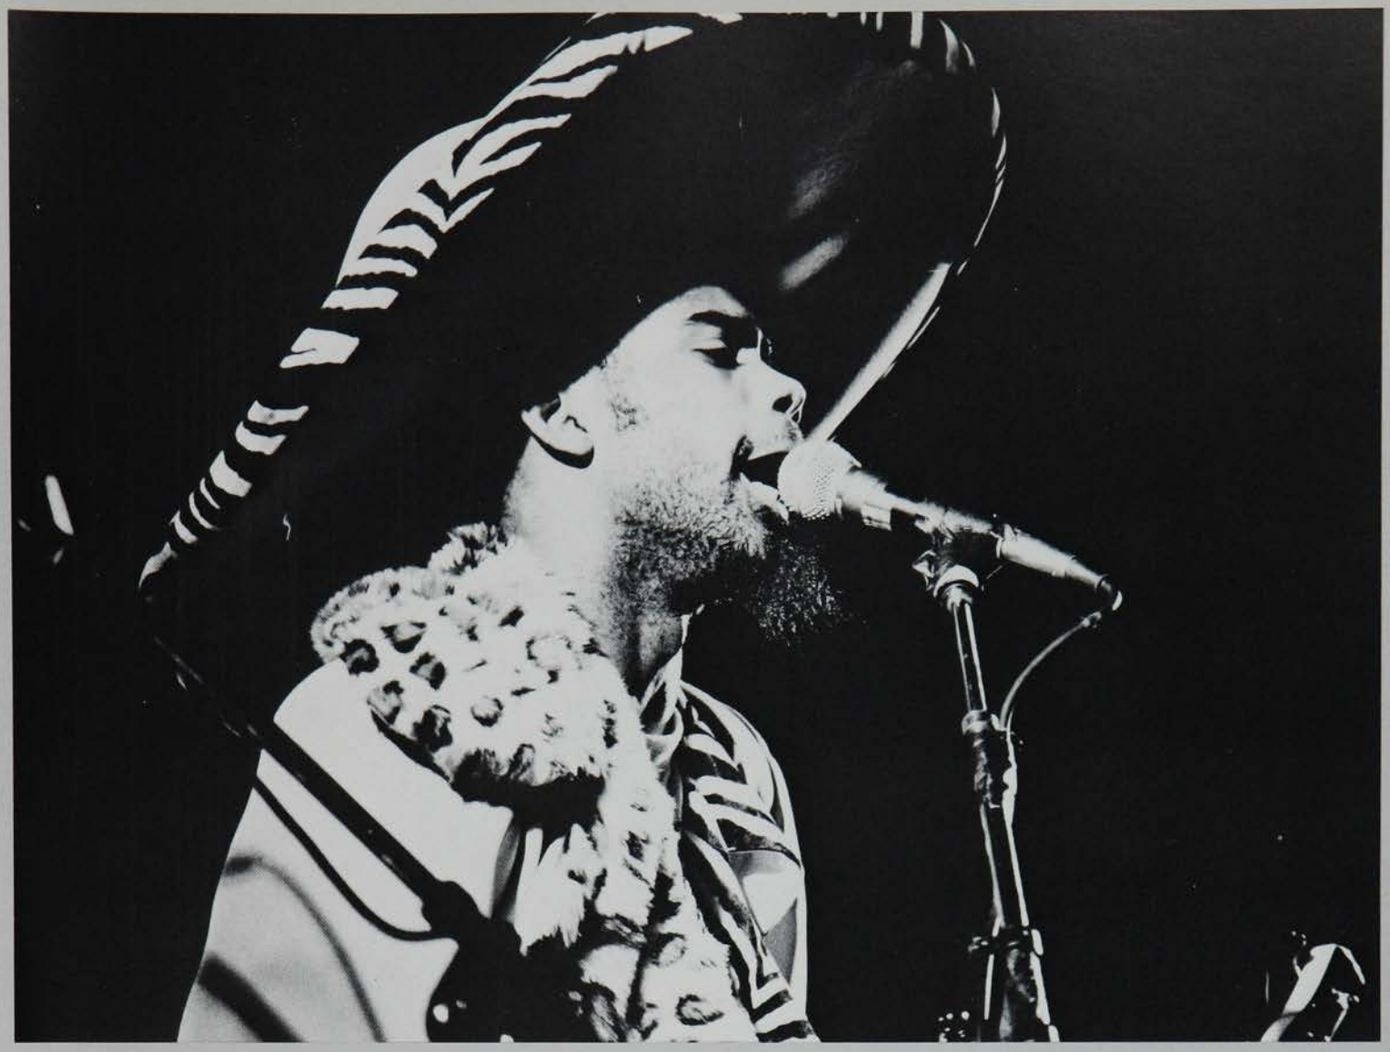

"Hold Me!", a generic theater production was held on November 10th. This student-run performance delighted audiences in the Lisner Auditorium with its originality and professionalism. Each semester, the generic theater gives students an opportunity to use their talents in an independent play.

NY COMEDY NIGHT

A GW crowd was on hand to watch, listen, and laugh as comedians poked fun at politics and the inauguration of President-elect George Bush at the Rat on January 19th. Leading the shows was a local attorney, Steve Oster, followed by Barry Weintraub. Will Durst was the headliner, and clearly all three made the night a success.

RHA SUITCASE PARTY

For a $1 ticket, GW sophomores Adam Schulman and Nikki Rospond won a trip to Walt Disney World. The RHA Suitcase Party took place on January 20th in the Market Square Cafeteria. Participants in this event have a chance to win a trip — but the catch is, you must bring a suitcase packed and ready to go. The winner and his guest were taken by limousine to B.W.I. for their flight. Ironically, neither of the students had come to the event prepared, they had only been dropping by.

MDA SUPERDANCE

The GW community mixed love and caring while still enjoying themselves at the Superdance. The annual Superdance raised $13,820 for the Muscular Dystrophy Association on February 3rd and 4th. The 30 hour dance-a-thon was held in the Market Square and attracted more participants than ever before. Mace Smallwood, a GW sophomore, raised $1,442 alone, making him the top dancer and recipient of a weekend for two in the Bahamas. Other trips and prizes were also awarded. Radiant, Big Bang Theory and a campus band, Original Thought performed.

RESIDENCE LIFE

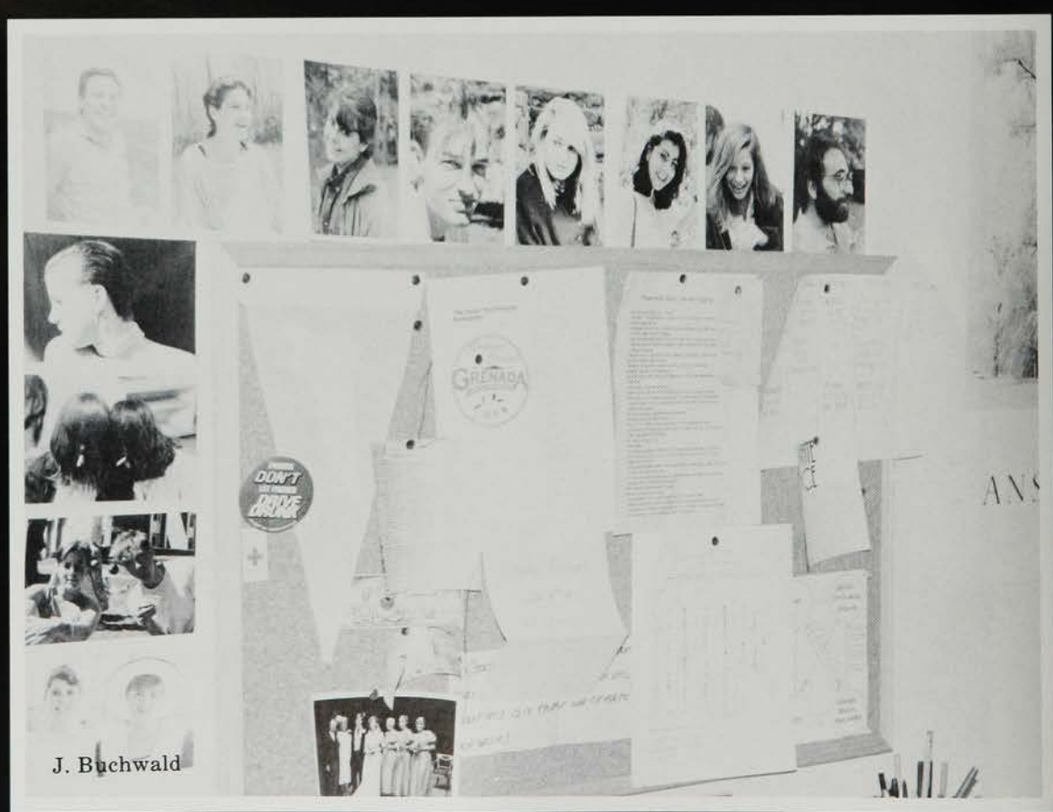

J. Buchwald

SARP 1985

"So, I am so upset, I got in some place called Everglades, do you know what it's like?" "I think I would move off campus if I didn't get into Thurston . . . " "I'm so upset, I have to live in Thurston . . . "

Well, in the summer of 1985, Thurston Hall seemed to be every freshman's dream or nightmare. I can remember back almost four years now to that summer, and the stories of fun, excitement, glory (well, maybe not glory) and everything else that goes on in Thurston. Never having seen the University before that weekend, I was somewhat blind when it came to choosing a place to live. I remember sitting at home trying to figure which place was best for some weird kid, not from the tri-state area. Well, I chose Mitchell Hall, and said, "My, won't it be great to live alone!" Nonetheless, the solitary feelings that I once experienced have now dissipated, and I had to live in Thurston Hall, or as I quickly learned, "Thurston Hell."

FALL 1985

College, dorms, independence, fun, friendships, all included, I was ready, eager, and encouraged to start anew in the city. I can remember the first night in Thurston Hall. I got in, taped some posters to the wall, placed my dictionary, thesaurus, and some old high school text books on my desk, made the bed, and I was ready for "The college adventure". Before me lay a land of no curfews, no finding a place to party, and finally being somewhat legal to drink. It's always exciting to pull out a real ID when walking into a bar. However I learned a thing or two while enjoying my new freedom. Here's the scenario, it's 5:00 Sunday morning. I have just gone to bed after another wild night of partying on "Frat Row" and someone has just pulled the damn fire alarm. Don't these people think that anyone ever sleeps?! Well, maybe if I stay real quiet here in my bed, my

RHA

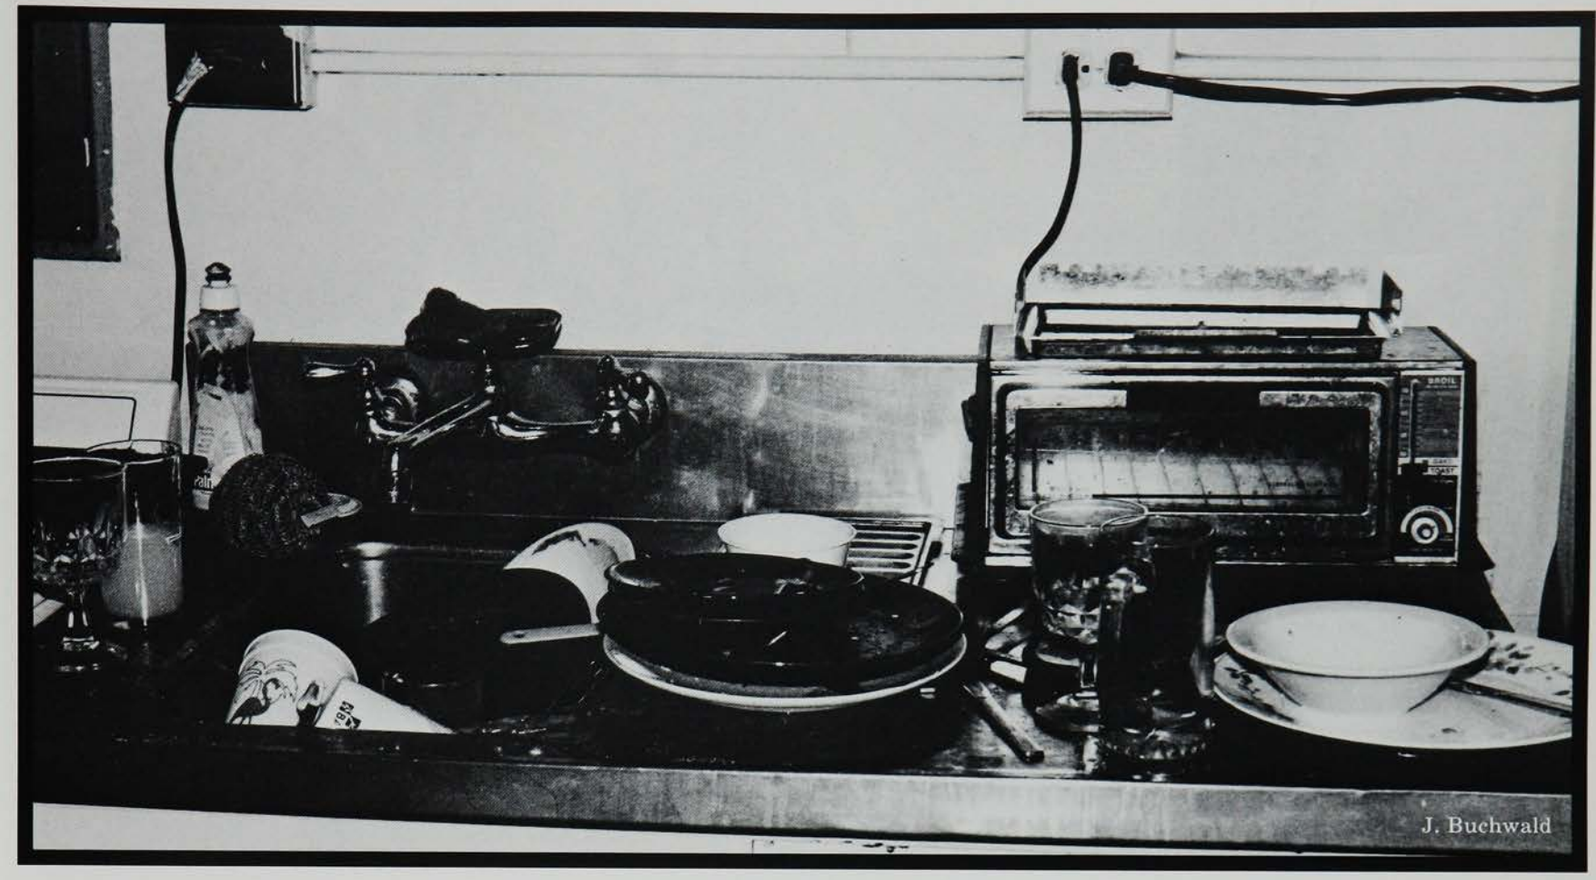

S. Fisher

Buchwald

J. Buchwald

J. Buchwald

RA will think that I'm already out of the room. I whisper to my roommate "Yo Bill, let's just hang out . . . wait, I think I smell smoke, yes I definitely smell smoke. Let's get the hell out of here!" You know all those times they warned us about leaving garbage outside the trash chute? Well, it happened. As a result, the carpet was soaked, the trash chute door was charred, and all the rooms smelled like the kitchen after daddy played chef while mommy was at investment club. The phone message monster was another problem that I never anticipated dealing with in my room. "So, why didn't you tell me that my mother called?" All right, I admit it. I am ready to move out and live in Mitchell Hall by myself. As I quickly learned, the main room in a Thurston dorm room was not for beds, but for other amenities. Within a few short weeks I had moved into the closet off the main room and had made it my little home. It was somewhat awkward telling my mother that I was living in a closet, but at least I had my own room, my privacy, and refuge from my roommates. "Brother who is on the phone? I have to be at the house in how many minutes?" Pledging will always be a part of Thurston. Pledge T-shirts, pledge pins, paddles, and pledge note books were a common sight in Thurston Hall. Seeing whole pledge classes come into the building at 4:30 am during the weekday was also a frequent sight. Unity is a word that I look back on a shiver, but, what the heck, I survived.

J. Buchwald

Adams

SPRING 1986

"A lot of sleep, Sudafed, and aspirin . . . but doctor, I live in Thurston Hall." Well, that was sort of true, I never was able to enjoy normal sleeping hours in that building. Hind sight 20/20, I don't think it would have been the same if I had. I think that my lack of sleep was one of the reasons I was constantly sick that semester. "I really don't remember, the last I knew, I was locked out of my room so I decided to wait outside my door, and the next thing I remember was waking up on your couch." I still to this day thank the girls across the hall for putting me to bed after stumbling home from the exchange. "Ok, you won that one, but lets play three out of five." Backgammon was the national sport of Thurston. "No, Steve, I swear, it was just cigarettes!" Beer was legal in the rooms, but Absolut was preferred. "Lottery, what the hell is the lottery? How will I talk my friend to pull me into Key Hall? Wait, you know someone in Guthridge? Do you need a roommate?" As the days grew to a close, I was happy to have survived Thurston knowing that it had been the biggest character building experience since birth.

J. Buchwald

J. Bushwal

FALL 1986

Well, the lottery was not so good to me, but I was able to move back into Thurston two days early because I was on the hall council. I was a sophomore, in a fraternity, had a key to the change machine, and had call waiting. I knew this would be a better year for me. "Can someone please do the dishes, we're going to get . . . ROACHES!" All right, it wasn't that bad, but at the time I thought the room should have been fumigated. The Family Von Roach had infiltrated the refrigerator, the cabinets, and most of the darker corners of the room. "I swear Steve, we were only watching movies, it was only cigarettes. All right, the hall council meetings every Tuesday got to be a bit too much, but we had fun. The first ever . . . Thurston Hall "Back to School Blast!"

SPRING 1987

No classes! Sometimes I really love the snow. It is amazing what happens when you tell 900 people that there will no school due to snow. $127.00 worth of alcohol, a backgammon board, and all the fixings for a hot monopoly tourney. Everyone seemed to be together in harmony. See, Mother Nature does know best. Anyway, by this time, I think we were really ready to say goodbye to Thurston Hall for the last time. No more fire drills, no more call waiting, and no more . . . fun? The Thurston Hall block party was the only day in April that it rained, but the band "Radiant" played on. The crowd went crazy, and the ARD of Thurston passed out under the table in the staff office. The staff members of that day were a wild and crazy bunch. Anyway, the year ended, and so did a major portion of my college life at GWU.

Mitchell Hall had its share of loneliness due to the single dorm rooms, but it had one of the best, weirdest, and most creative groups of people ever assembled into one residence hall. Being an upper classman has its advantages, but who knows?

By now, Riverside Hall was the new, hot dorm. Odd's had now become GG Flipps, and Thurston Hall was now a freshman only dorm. There was more snow in November, but this time the students didn't respond quite as festively. I think I am starting to grow up and calm down. What is this world coming to?

SPRING 1988

What have things come to? You actually have to have ID to get into Thurston, and the freshmen couldn't

Munson

J. Buchwald

J. Buchwald

Strong

drink. The years are going more quickly as the days go on. Wait, where am I going to live this summer? What am I going to do? Stop the world, I want to get off!

FALL 1988

I'm in a suite with a bathroom! It is amazing the difference that a little pee room can make. I have roommates again, but I think that we shall fare it out throughout the year. Senior year. Party. Anticipation.

SPRING 1989

Resumes, partying, and fear were all thoughts that went through my mind. What am I doing? What is happening? As the last few days or probably more appropriately put "Daze" of college life approach, I can only remember the years, experiences, and good times that will be forever memories. With fond memories, high hopes, and great aspirations, I say "Goodbye GWU".

George Washington 1968

As the result of a decision made by Director of Athletics, Steve Bilsky, the wrestling program was terminated upon the completion of the 1988-89 season. The wrestlers and their coach petitioned both Vice President for Student and Academic Support Services, Robert Chernak, and President Trachtenberg to overturn Bilsky's decision. Their appeal was denied.

POLITICS

"If the vice-president of the United States thinks that Robert Bork was an outstanding appointment, that is a very good reason for voting for Mike Dukakis and Lloyd Bentsen." (October 14, 1988)

F. Siblini

(In debate, in response to Quayle's remarks about JFK) "Senator, I served with Jack Kennedy. I knew Jack Kennedy. Jack Kennedy was a friend of mine. Senator, you're no Jack Kennedy."

During the final weeks of the campaign Dukakis and Jackson took time out to visit GW.

(Response if he was to become President) "First I'd say a prayer."

ACTIVITIES

P.B.

The GWU Program Board is an organization comprised of hard working individuals who are responsible for providing the majority of on campus entertainment. Headed by Paul Arohnson, the organization is divided into groups representing various interests and tastes.

Advertising and Public Relations. These committees are responsible for arousing interest, awareness, and participation in all activities. The vitality and success of a program depends on publicity.

Parties! Come and party with the Pit Bulls from Hell. The parties committee started the year off with Fall Fest and continued through with an Election Day party, a Halloween Party, numerous Reggae parties, and, of course, closed the year with Spring Fling (Elvis Lives.)

Concerts. This year, this committee brought such greats as Ziggy Marley, Elvis Costello, and Fishbone to campus. Music pulsates through the Smith Center due to the proficiency and determination of the people dedicating themselves to concerts.

Film and Arts. "Fatal Attraction", "A Fish Called Wanda", "Moonstruck", — these movies were just a few exhibited by the films committee. New York Comedy Nights as well as the Laser Show were masterminded by the Arts chair.

Political and Cultural Affairs. This year John Anderson, Sen. Arlen Specter (R-PA), and the Ambassador of El Salvador, among others, spoke on campus. A melangé of topics such as the situation in Northern Ireland, the Holocaust, and South Africa were discussed in Prejudice Reduction Workshops hosted by the Cultural Awareness Committee.

Each committee has expended countless hours and thought in the programming of activities to be hosted by GW. The people on this board dedicate themselves to the university, the students, and to each other, exhibiting brilliant programs as proof.

GW C.A.N.

Grandma's House, the Adult Literacy Program, Miriam's Kitchen, the tutoring of immigrant children — we have all heard of these programs. GWCAN (Community Action Network) has played a key role in facilitating these activities as well as many others. Headed by Dean Lubnick, Rev. Bill Crawford, and Jill Pinkas, this organization lends its hands as well as its heart to those in need.

A program that focuses on children with AIDS is Grandma's House. Members of GWCAN give support, love, and confidence to children who have been abandoned because of this deadly disease.

The Adult Literacy Program aids those adults who can neither read nor write. Members donate their time to effectively help those who were unfortunate not to learn the basics.

The homeless. Every morning at 6:30 a.m. volunteers trek to Miriam's Kitchen to assits in serving food to those without homes. Members of GWCAN greet these people with smiles and a warm "Hello!" as they reach out in care of those less fortunate.

El Salvadorian, Burmese, Egyptian, South Korean, and Ethiopian children are tutored in English through this program — the flagship of GWCAN. Mike Rhein, Mary Ellen Carroll, and other students join to teach these children math, English, and reading. The children are our future . . .

YES! GWCAN do it all.

THE END

As I sit here and write my final words of wisdom for this yearbook, I can only think of one thing to say after countless hours, days and years of service to the Cherry Tree: I hope that in the future the Cherry Tree will prosper and maintain a level of quality acceptable to the GW community. I would also like to thank Tonette and Doug (and Max too!) who listened to four years of my moaning and groaning over things that I probably should not have worried about; my Mother and Father, who support me throughout my continuing education; and most of all Barbara, Brook, Liz, and Ann. Without their help, my experience would never have been successful. Goodbye G.W.U., I will miss you.
